WHO IS NACUMS?

For the past 30 years NACUMS has been the premier national association serving higher education professionals in mail, shipping, logistics, print, and campus support services. What truly sets NACUMS apart is its culture. The NACUMS community is collaborative, welcoming, and relationship-driven. Our members value vendors who understand the unique needs of higher education and who invest in the association and its mission. Many exhibitor relationships formed at NACUMS continue for years, extending well beyond the conference itself.

WHO ATTENDS?

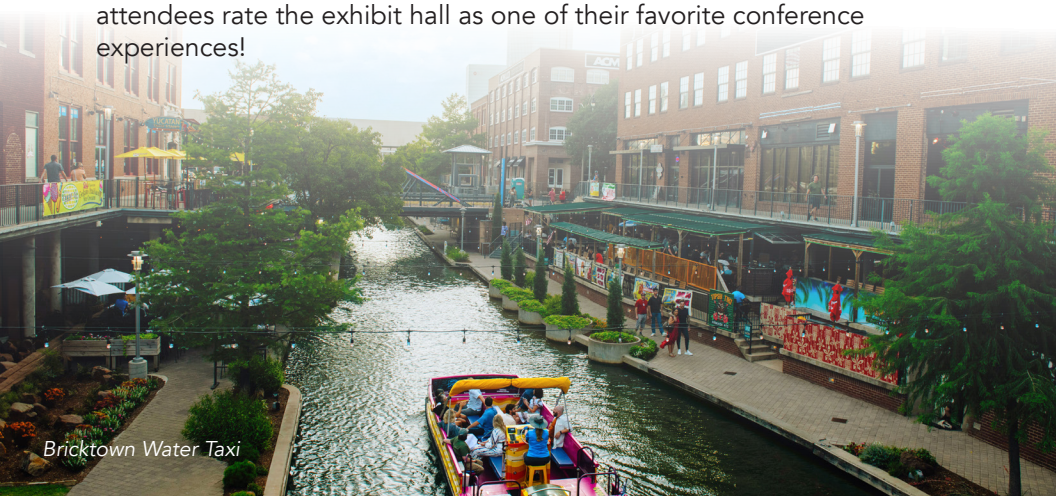

The NACUMS conference brings together leaders who are actively responsible for purchasing decisions, contract renewals, and operational strategy across the nation's colleges and universities. Our attendees are not passive observers, they are:

- Directors, managers, and decision-makers
- Budget owners and influencers
- Professionals actively seeking solutions to real operational challenges

Exhibiting at NACUMS is not just about visibility, it's about becoming part of a national community.

MORE REASONS TO EXHIBIT!

NACUMS is known for its welcoming, collaborative culture and our conference is intentionally designed to be more than a traditional exhibit hall for our business partners. Business Partners are woven into the conference experience through purposeful networking opportunities, dedicated engagement times, educational sessions, and informal conversations that encourage authentic connections. This format allows vendors to demonstrate expertise, build trust, and position themselves as valued partners and not just suppliers. And year after year, our attendees rate the exhibit hall as one of their favorite conference experiences!
